SERICULTURE IN MYSORE

NEED FOR DEVELOPMENT

(By Mr. N. Rama Rao, Retired Director of Industries and Commerce in Mysore.)

Your own correspondent's synopsis of Rajasabhabhushana K. R. Srinivasa Iyengar's proposals for the development of Sericulture in Mysore indicates that the Rajasabhabushana is making a diligent study of the Reports, Notes, and recommendations of the Sericultural Department, and the evidence which I, as Director of Industries and Commerce, gave before the Tariff Board during their recent enquiry—a very laudable pursuit, no doubt, for a gentleman who late in life, perhaps rashly, accepts the role of President of a technical institution; but the claim apparently made for the note that it is an original contribution to the knowledge of the subject is not true, and Mr. Srinivasa Iyengar would, if reminded, probably acknowledge his indebtedness for the entire performance to the devoted men who have made sericulture their life's study, and the improvement of sericulture their life's work. The note forgets the very considerable achievements of the Sericultural Department along every one of the lines of development suggested. There is nothing new in the proposals. In fact, an Administration Report of the Department of Sericulture of nearly ten years ago recommends a programme of work almost identical with that in Mr. K. R. Srinivasa Iyengar's document, which, to judge from your own correspondent's (probably authorised) version, is a summary of the proposals which have been officially before Government—some of them, for years. The Government, if gifted with a sense of humour, should find the Rajasabhabhushana's solemn present, as something new of a recapitulation of its own old records, rather amusing. The trouble with the Government has not been that it does not know, or has not been told, but only that it has not been able to find money, the claims of sericulture having been postponed to those of noisier or more spectacular interests.

NOT LACK OF KNOWLEDGE, BUT LACK OF FUNDS

I have before me, as I write, an admirable monograph on the silk industry of Japan issued by the Imperial Council of Agricultural Research, which contains an account of what the Government of Japan has done and is doing for sericulture in that country. There is hardly a development in Japan, but has been studied by the trained experts of the Mysore Sericultural Department, tested out as far as the limitations here permitted, and with suitable adaptations, made the subject of a recommendation to Government—but no adequate action has resulted. The defect was not lack of knowledge of the right thing to do, but lack of funds; lack, perhaps, of a realisation that action should keep pace with knowledge, especially where the welfare of an eighth of the population of the State is concerned.

The constitution of the Silk Association was drawn up by me when I was Superintendent of Sericulture, in close consultation with the late Mr. Mir Humza Hussain whose heart was ever in sympathy with the poor, who, mainly, practise sericulture. I can claim to speak with some knowledge of the Association, for I have had touch with it, officially or unofficially, throughout its existence. It was started—and for obvious reasons I am on sure ground when I say it—with the object of bringing together in a central place sericulturists from all parts of the State, and focussing live opinion on practical problems. This expectation, I am afraid, has not been fulfilled. The Association is not in touch with the country; its knowledge of Sericulture is derived almost entirely from official reports and its own official personnel; and this knowledge it serves up back to the Government in the form of proposals like the one in the note from Mr. K. R. Srinivasa Iyengar which your correspondent calls "a valuable document." Is not there a pathetic futility about this dreary round of "business"? It was a realisation of the futility of the Silk Association which made the Sericultural Conference opened at Channapatna on the 26th November 1933 by H. H. the Yuvaraja of Mysore, record on my motion, a resolution to the following effect:

II. (i) This Conference earnestly prays Government to be pleased to appoint a committee of officials and non-officials under the presidency of the Member of Council in charge of Industries to prepare a programme of work for the improvement of the sericultural industry both in technique and organization, so as to secure greater efficiency and more intimate co-ordination in all the processes comprised in it from the cultivation of mulberry to the marketing of the finished product.

(ii) The Conference further prays that to ensure vigilance and continuity, the above Committee be entrusted with the function of preparing and scrutinising detailed schemes coming within the scope of the programme prepared as above, and to take stock from time to time of the progress achieved, and to consider all problems relating to sericulture as may be referred to it by Government.

(iii) This Conference prays Government to be pleased to set apart every year during the period comprised in the programme, a provision adequate for the due fulfilment of the programme.

(iv) The Conference submits that this Committee be requested in the first instance to address itself to the following urgent tasks:—

(a) Increasing the production of well-reeled silk capable of satisfying the standards to which the market has become accustomed and reducing costs of production.

(b) Establishing a Conditioning House.

(c) Establishing selling agencies in the principal centres in India.

(d) Installing a Spinning Factory.

Mover: Mr. N. Rama Rao, B.A., B.L.

Seconder: Mr. Syed Allah Baksh.

Supporter: Mr. Sidde Gowda.

Incidentally, this resolution contains, in condensed form, most of the suggestions in Mr. K. R. Srinivasa Iyengar's note. The object was to secure the constitution of a Committee the considered resolution of which would have the adherence of the Member of Council concerned, who could therefore implement each decision promptly by issuing an order of Government. I am not aware that any action has yet been taken on that recommendation.

It is interesting to find that in Japan they have a Committee "for improving effieciency and reducing cost of production"—the very task before us in Mysore and India—presided over by the Minister for Agriculture and Forestry.

THE IMMEDIATE NEED

Indian sericulture—thanks mainly to the efforts of the Government of Mysore—has secured some measure of protection, which, such as it is, has been granted at the cost of the Indian Weaving industry and the Indian consumer. This casts on the silk producing countries of India a solemn reciprocal duty, to do all in their power to develop sericulture so as to make India independent of foreign silk, and to render protection unnecessary in course of time. They have to expand sericulture, and at the same time to reduce costs by technical improvements and better organisation. Not to do so would be a breach of faith, for on no other understanding could protection be granted. This is a responsibility which rests on every silk producing country of India, and not least heavily on Mysore, which is not only the largest producer of silk, but also took the lead in the demand for protection.

One looks in vain, in the Budget proposals or explanatory speeches and memoranda recently before the Representative Assembly and the Legislative Council for any provision indicating an intention to fulfil this undertaking. It is quite possible that the deficiency may be made good by a supplementary grant, but it is the solemn truth that unless something is done soon, sericulture may have ceased to exist. It will have cried for bread, and received—a Report, "a valuable document."

Final Note by the First Member of Council.

Subject:—

Formation of a Board of Sericulture.

At the third Mysore Provincial Sericultural Conference held at Channapatna on the 26th November 1933, a resolution was passed urging upon Government the desirability of appointing a Committee of officials and non-officials under the presidency of the Member of Council in charge of Industries to prepare a programme of work for the improvement of the sericultural industry and to entrust certain functions to this Committee.

The Sericultural Industry in Mysore has suffered considerably during recent years on account of the prevailing depression in trade and the dumping of cheap foreign silks into the Indian market. The several problems relating to sericulture from the cultivation of mulberry to the marketing of the finished product require urgent and continuous attention in order to take full advantage of the protection now afforded to the industry for a limited period by the Government of India. In view of the great importance of the industry in the economy of the State and its present parlous condition, it is considered desirable that a Board of Sericulture should be formed to consider all problems relating to sericulture, make suggestions and co-ordinate the various activities.

The Dewan and the Second Member of Council are agreeable to the above proposal. A draft Government Order on these lines also indicating the personnel of the Board is submitted for His Highness' gracious approval.

SIR,

I have the honour to state that at the III Mysore Provincial Sericultural Conference held at Channapatna on the 26th Novr. 1933 under the auspices of the Mysore Silk Association, a resolution was passed praying Government to appoint a Committee of officials and non-officials under the presidency of the Member of Council in charge of Industries to prepare a programme of work for the improvement of the sericultural industry and to entrust certain functions to the above Committee. A copy of the resolution is sent enclosed for the information of Government. The Hon. ~~Secretary~~ President of the Mysore Silk Association, has requested me to address Government in the matter.

In my view, the appointment of such a Committee will be very useful to conduct the campaign for reducing the cost of production of Mysore silk. If Government kindly approve the formation of the Committee suggested, I shall work up further details and submit them for the orders of Government.

I request you to kindly obtain orders of Government in regard to the formation of the Committee.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
